I would like to urge the committee to plan wisely by developing strong regulations that will preserve our freshwater resources and prevent unforeseen heartache and taxpayer expense associated with flooding that may occur from pipeline cuts, floodplain fill, and other projects around our State's freshwater resources. Too often the rules benefit short term economic benefits to the detriment of our valuable water resources and without thinking about the devastating effects, often associated with climate change, to our businesses and neighborhoods when these ill planned projects lead to repeated flooding and loss.
