To whom it may concern, I am writing in support of stronger regulations when it comes to protecting our freshwater resources in Pennsylvania from future pipeline cuts, floodplain fill, dams and other harmful emerging proposed projects seeking to encroach and sometimes "do business" in these sensitive habitats where business doesn't belong. Keeping buildings and infrastructure out of sensitive wetland and stream habitats, forested riparian buffers, floodways, and floodplains will go a long way to being smarter not just for the water quality and protection of Pennsylvania's public trust standpoint and the people and property downstream but from savings by taxpayer dollars down the road with less flooding impacts and expense and heartache that often comes with those repetitive losses. I urge you to adopt strict rules that will protect our waterways and our environment. Thank you.
