The obvious needs stating "water is life on earth". The better its protected the better the quality of life for all earth's inhabitants. As we only have access to <2% of the 5 available shortages loom from the onrushing climate crisis it behooves us to take good care of what we have.

Efforts to reform regulations governing protections should error on the side of over protectiveness. The results of allowing abuse by profit driven entities is approx.45% of our streams do not support aquatic life at this time.
