Public comment - The money should follow the student 100%. Public schools still get 25% from the child after choosing a cyber school, they should not even get that much. You have disgustingly dirty schools that do not put that money towards any child's education especially when superintendents make 6 figures. Going to a cyber school I have never had to pay for supplies as they give them to you. Public schools do not even have enough classroom supplies to share. The money is not going where it should when a child is in a b&m school. Keep it as is or the money should 100% follow the kid!
